IRISH WINE GEESE

The term 'Irish Wine Geese' is derived from the flight of the 'Wild Geese' in the late seventeenth century, when Catholic Jacobite soldiers fled Ireland for France for political and economic reasons. Many of these soldiers and their immediate descendants flourished as merchants and traders, and later owned properties, estates and vineyards around the port of Bordeaux. Today, the Irish influence on vineyards globally continues this pioneering tradition. The following is a list of wines and wineries with an Irish connection

Antinori Collection

The Antinori family has been making wine in Italy for over 600 years, with a legacy dating back to 1385. Traditionally passed down through generations, the estate is now led by Albiera, Allegra, and Alessia Antinori, the daughters of Marchese Piero Antinori. This marks the first time in the family's history that women are at the helm. They continue to uphold tradition while embracing innovation and sustainability, ensuring the estate's global prestige.
